

The Mailman Center for Child Development addresses the needs of individuals with developmental disabilities and special health care needs through research, training, advocacy, and clinical services

Our Vision

*Improving lives through INNOVATION, IMPACT AND CONNECTION

Our Mission

Address the diverse needs of individuals with neurodevelopmental disabilities, special health care needs, families and the community of people with disabilities.

Develop models of care that improve support, independence, security and long-term functioning.

Identify genetic, biologic, environmental and interpersonal risks that contribute to disabilities.

Integrate emerging knowledge and technology to prevent or lessen the impact of disabilities.

Educate professionals, families and the community about disabilities, prevention, and resources.

The Mailman Center is one of the top 10 programs in the United States for children with neurodevelopmental disabilities and chronic illness. Our experts work together as an interprofessional team to provide the highest level of care in a family-centered and culturally competent environment. We start with the family's priorities, then work with each family to identify specific conditions and decide on the best course of treatment.
