Letter to Parents

To the Parents:

The Florida Poison Information Center Network is proud to present our Poison Prevention Activity Book. Within these covers, your children will become acquainted with some of the local creatures of Florida as well as learn what to do to prevent poisonings. Please take the time to review this important material with your children and emphasize for them to “ask someone before they taste, smell, or touch.”

We hope that this activity book will be a good source of poison prevention information and fun for children as well. If you are looking for additional information, please visit the poison centers in Florida on the web at www.fpinc.org. And remember, if you think someone has been poisoned, call toll-free to 1-800-222-1222.

Sincerely,

Your friends at the Florida Poison Information Center Network

The Florida Poison Information Center would like to thank everyone who donated their services for the printing of this book.

Meet Stan the Florida Scorpion!

Hi! I’m Stan the Florida Scorpion. I’m part of the Poison Patrol gang. I am here to help you learn about some poisonous creatures. For example, I have a stinger located on the tip of my tail. If a scorpion stings you, tell a grown up right away... so they can call the Poison Center to find out what to do.

Remember to call the Poison Center!

Remember to call the poison center whenever you have a poisoning emergency!

Meet Widow!

My name is Widow the Spider and I need your help to determine the animals that may bite or sting. Use the clues below to solve the puzzle.

Across
1. I have pinchers and a tail that stings
3. I have a see-through body with long tentacles
5. I have eight legs and spin a web
6. I am usually black or red in color with 6 legs and I like picnics
7. I fly and make a buzzing noise

Down
2. I am fuzzy with lots of little feet and I eat leaves
4. I have no legs or arms but special teeth to bite

Thanks!

Gigi Good Gator and the rest of the Poison Patrol gang want to thank you for helping them learn about poisons. Remember to ask a grown up first, before you touch, taste or smell.
Hi, my name is Coral. I am a brightly colored poisonous snake found in the Eastern United States. I am usually quite shy, but can still cause a very dangerous bite. There are several types of snakes that are poisonous, so if you see a snake, you want to tell a grown up right away. You never want to play with a snake, because we all can bite.

Bobby wants to learn what things are poisonous. There are 20 poisonous substances hidden in here. Can you help Bobby find them all?

Stan Needs Your Help!

Stan the Scorpion needs help to get away from the poisons. Can you get him to his home that has been poison-proofed?

Widow’s Advice

Widow the Spider wants you to please ask first before you touch, taste or smell anything. You never know what could actually be poisonous!
